

APPENDIX 1

Fernando Adiga Wijaya Interview

1. As a gamer do you like accessing information about games from the internet?

Yes

2. What kind of things that make a gaming information site good?

Having a good community, not a toxic one. The culture of “flaming” should not be nurtured. Flaming is the act of hurting a franchise by using rude comments or even insults without any objective reason. There should also a readers’ comment section so that gamers can discuss together and tell each other what they think.

3. What kind of design do you think will work in creating a site like that? Simple design? Complicated design? Please explain the design that you will like best.

A simple & easy to learn/use.

4. Do you enjoy reading an article about games in a sarcastic tone or insulting tone? Or what kind of tone do you prefer to read them in?

The articles must be HONEST. They should be opinion-based articles. If an article says that a game is bad, it must state the reason why it is bad with good explanation. If a game is bad, then explain why it is bad, if it’s bad because of its graphic, then explain why having such graphic is bad. No “flaming” allowed.

5. Do you prefer the writer to write an article based on what they feel about the game or he/she will try to write an article objectively?

Both, opinions are important. But it is important as well to be objective. As long as there is a good reason why it is written as it is, then it’s okay.
