WSAVA Microchip Committee

Towards a world-wide standardised electronic identification of companion animals

The WSAVA Microchip committee strongly recommends the adoption of the ISO standard to facilitate free movement and identification of companion animals throughout the world. Speaking on behalf of Dr Marc Buchet (Belgium), who replaced Dr Walt Ingwersen (Canada) as Chairman of the WSAVA Microchip committee, Dr Roger Clarke will give an update on microchip use this afternoon.

During his talk, Dr Clarke will describe how, since the adoption of the FDX-B ISO standard for microchips used in companion animals, many countries have adopted this standard officially. The UK and Europe have largely converted to ISO / FDX-B chips and the adoption of the UK Pet Passport to allow free movement of animals into and out of the UK has hastened this process.

More recently, a company has introduced FDX-B ISO compliant microchips into the USA – “the last large country to resist the introduction of this type of chip”. According to Dr Clarke, “the smooth transition of the USA to ISO may take some time, but will go a long way to introducing standardisation into this technology if it is successful because it is such a huge potential market”.

The trilogy of a functional microchip (transponder), a powerful scanner (transceiver) that is widely available and a responsive microchip database “are all essential components of the recovery system”, Dr Clarke stresses.

“Until governments become involved, to make this technology an integral part of the registration system, the problem of unidentifiable strays being needlessly destroyed will continue. It is up to the veterinary profession as well as the welfare societies to continue to exert pressure for the adoption of this technology”.

Apart from the welfare cost of millions of animal being needlessly destroyed each year in pounds and shelters, the cost to the community of stray animal control is huge. “These could both be reduced considerably if ownership of companion animals could be positively traced back to the owners who are ultimately responsible for them”.

“The World of Microchips”, Boardroom 2, today at 17h45.

Responsible Pet Ownership

Pet Insurance by Edward Zapletal

A valuable and sensible way to protect your loving companion. Now more choice in the market.

Henry is your typical FREE cat. Not long after joining his family, Henry was hit by a car, suffered many serious injuries and went through months of recovery. Thanks to the wonderful care he received from his veterinarians, Henry survived. His accident memories will be all the love and attention and the slightly turned up lip. His owner, Chris Craig, will remember all the stress and worry ending in a $2,700 veterinary bill.

This true story had a happy ending due in large part to that fact that Henry's owner saw the value in having her cat insured. As Chris put it: "I could have found a way to cover the costs for his veterinary care, but why think about money when I have my pet's health to worry about. I never thought I would need insurance for my pet, but I'm glad that I made the decision to get it."

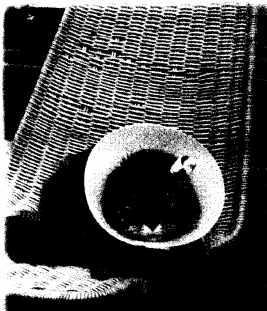

For many other pets in Canada, however, the outcome might not have been so bright.

A Sad Reality

Most pet owners consider their beloved companions to be just as human as they are. A PETS Magazine survey from 1996 revealed that owners ranked their pets and children second only in importance to their human mates. The sad reality is that the most common cause of death in companion animals is financial euthanasia. A term referring to the situation where a pet owner must make a decision on their pet's well being based solely on their financial situation. If our pets are like family, how could we do this?

Facing a large bill from a veterinarian after your pet is in an accident or is stricken with a serious illness can be a shocking experience for any pet owner. The reality is that we don't often think about the long-term commitment of pet ownership when we are taking the initial plunge. And that commitment should include some thought as to what might happen if Fido or Fluffy needed emergency veterinary care. Will you have the necessary funds available in the event you are faced with an expensive vet bill? What will you do if the money is not available? There is a solution... and it is pet insurance.

Pet insurance helps to relieve the worry of unexpected emergency bills.

Why Pet Insurance?

The last thing you want to be worrying about when your pet is seriously ill is money.

According to a spokesperson from PetPlan Insurance, "Pet insurance gives owners an important thing when it comes to visiting the veterinarian... piece of mind. It gives them some reassurance that if their pet is in need of emergency care due to an accident, or if their pet is very ill, they will be able to afford the cost of treatment."

Today's pets are susceptible to any number of common ailments such as allergies, diabetes, Feline Lower Urinary Tract Disease or canine hip dysplasia to name a few. These conditions can require expensive surgery or ongoing medical maintenance that can run into the hundreds or thousands of dollars.

Dr. Jennifer Lazer, C.O.O of PetCare Insurance notes, "People who have been aware of pet insurance in the past may have been concerned about the cost of coverage, but with plans available under $10, pet insurance is now more affordable than ever."

Lazar adds, "The advances made in veterinary science and nutrition mean that today's dogs and cats are living longer. Therefore, they are developing diseases that are a result of advancing years. Strides made in veterinary medicine mean that, today, many of these illnesses can be cured or controlled with proper treatment. Unfortunately, people do not anticipate the unforeseen costs to treat these illnesses."

Cost & Coverage

How much you can expect to pay for pet insurance will largely depend on the type of coverage you choose. There are two major players in the Canadian market: PetCare Insurance Brokers Ltd. of Oakville, Ontario; and Pet Plan Insurance of Mississauga, Ontario.

Depending on the chosen plan and company, coverage costs range from as little as $8.50/month to $53.70/month.

The single largest difference in the individual plans offered by both companies is the limits of coverage. Both companies have excellent internet web sites that show plans at a glance. We have also provided toll-free numbers at the end of this article.

Remember we're not talking about washing machines, stereos and VCRs here, we're talking about your pet's life. Consider the life of your pet. If they are worth more to you than any of the above mentioned items, doesn't it make sense to at least consider protecting your precious companion animal. Give yourself the piece of mind of knowing that you will be able to give your pet the best possible veterinary care?

Lampiran 7 :

WOULD HIS DIABETES BE ANY LESS DEBILITATING THAN YOURS?

Dogs and cats are members of the family. When they get hurt or sick, you want them to get the best care possible. And with all the progress that has been made in veterinary medicine, there's no reason why they shouldn't.

Today we can do what was impossible just five years ago.

Thanks to advances in veterinary medicine, treatment has never been better. Techniques like an ultrasound or M.R.I. reveal problems that might otherwise go undetected. New drugs are available. Specialists can be consulted. In some cases, organ transplants are performed. But a pet owner needs to be prepared.

Life and death should never be a dollars and cents decision.

Currently, many pet owners don't anticipate the unforeseen cost of an accident or illness. As a result, financial euthanasia still exists. Pet insurance provides support, so an owner never has to compromise his/her pet's care.

Why the Canadian, Ontario and Alberta Veterinary Medical Associations think you should have PetCare.

PetCare policies were developed in close consultation with veterinarians. In order to be accessible to a wide range of pet owners, our policies start at $8.50 a month. To make pet insurance simple, we offer easy website enrollment and efficient claim procedures. PetCare has worked hard to create flexible pet insurance with few restrictions. For these reasons and more, we are endorsed exclusively by the Canadian, Ontario and Alberta Veterinary Medical Associations.

HAPPY ENDING

After adopting my dog Sake from a shelter, I purchased my PetCare policy online. I had looked into other programs and determined PetCare's was the best option. I've been very happy with my pet insurance and very grateful that I took out the policy for Sake. She loves to play outside and somehow one-day she injured his ACL. When I contacted PetCare, the representatives were very helpful and I received my check the week after I submitted my claim. Taking out PetCare Pet Insurance was the greatest thing I have ever done. What an investment!

Part of Loving is Protecting

Responsible pet ownership means visiting your veterinarian on a regular basis for routine treatments, vaccinations and examinations. However, statistics show that pets will require unexpected treatments from time to time throughout their lifetimes.

Your vet is a highly skilled expert who has the latest medical techniques that may be required to return your pet to good health. Insuring your pet will assist you in managing the costs associated with high quality veterinary care.

Responsible pet ownership means providing your pet the best care you can.

Examples of common veterinary treatments and typical costs are as follows:

HAPPY ENDING

We have two Golden Retrievers that are each insured with PetCare Pet Insurance. It is a great thing to have, and definitely helped us with the veterinary expenses for Sierra's foreign body ingestion treatment. She is doing great, and it is as if the accident had never happened. We have told all of our owner friends and family that they should sign up with PetCare Insurance.

EmergencyCare
Exclusively for microchipped pets registered with 24PetWatch

EmergencyCare provides $3,000 of immediate coverage for veterinary fees should your pet go missing and be brought veterinary clinic or shelter requiring life saving treatment.

How it works

When your lost pet is brought to a clinic or shelter and scanned, it's microchip will reveal your pet's I. D. number. One phone call to 24PetWatch will reveal if EmergencyCare coverage is present. This gives the veterinarian immediate pre-authorization to administer up to $3,000 of life saving treatment. Emergency is the only program of it's type in North America and is available for a low premium of only $19.95 per year.

When you activate EmergencyCare your pet will be automatically registered in the 24PetWatch database. All microchipped pets regardless of the company it were originally microchipped with will have their microchip information registered with 24PetWatch free of charge.

Our pet insurance programs offer special rates to customers with microchipped pets. When you register your pet in the 24PetWatch database you will receive 5% discount on any pet insurance policy. Maximum discounts per pet per policy is 10%.

HAPPY ENDING

I signed up for QuickCare Gold on the website for my dog Oscar in the winter. I had received mailings from various pet insurance companies, and when my own comparisons PetCare seemed to be the best. By late spring Oscar was starting to walk funny, and I thought it was just a sprain. After a few weeks I took him to the vet, and was told he may need surgery because he had a Patella Luxation (slipped knee). By the end of July it was much worse and I had to have surgery operated on him. I was so glad that I had taken out my PetCare insurance policy to cover the cost. Pet insurance does work.
