Chapter IV

Analysis and Findings

This chapter presents analysis and findings. The writer uses this chapter to explain the analysis and findings of the problems in detail. Through this chapter, she also answers the question of the problems. This chapter is divided into two major point, analysis and findings. Each point consists of three parts. The first part consists of the analysis and finding of 41 'cybersex' slang terms into the categorisation based on four major parts of speech. The second part of the discussion conveys the analysis and findings of those 'cybersex' slang terms into slang formation, based on the theory of Hensaw and Montaque. The last part consists of the analysis and findings of 'cybersex' slang terms into componential analysis.

The writer limits the amount of 'cybersex' chatting into twelve chats only, since she finds that most of IRC 'cybersex' chatting often used the same words. She considers that the fourty- one 'cybersex' slang terms represent the data.

4.1. Analysis

4.1.1. Analysis of 'cybersex' slang terms based on Four Major Parts of Speech

In this part, the writer analyses the categorization of 41 'cybersex' slang terms, which are found from the data, based on four major parts of speech (noun, verb, adjective and adverb). The writer uses the table (Table1) below to show the analysis of that categorization.

4.1.3. Analysis of 'cybersex' slang terms into Componential Analysis

In this part, the writer analyses forty- one 'cybersex' slang terms, which are found in twelve chatting. Three linguists, David crystal, John Lyon, and Abdul Wahab are the references for this analysis on the theory of componential analysis. The writer analyses those 'cybersex' slang terms into componential analysis in order to state that componential analysis is the analysis of lexeme to get its meaning. Then she analyses all of the 'cybersex' slang terms into components. In analysing, the writer only picks some statements from some chats; the complete data of 'cybersex' chat are put in the Appendix 1.

The writer analyse 'cybersex' slang terms' meaning from their component based on the writer's interpretation according to the similarities in feature, share predication, analogy, and prior knowledge. Similarities in feature means there are similarities in the 'cybersex' slang term with the real thing to what the slang term refers to, for example pistol and penis. The two things have similarities in feature like what the writer explains in 4.1.3. number 25. Share predication means that people may share or have similarities in describing or predicting something, for example ball. People may have similarities in predicting the feature of a ball, for example; spherical and it is used fore a game.

1. \quad \text{ass} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1.\ \text{two rounded} \\ 2.\ \text{fleshy parts} \\ 3.\ \text{rump} \\ 4.\ \text{the anatomical rear} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{buttock}
Ass is two rounded of fleshy parts or rump, the anatomical rear.

Chat 9: "turn around and show your ass to me", ass here means buttock, part of women body which attracts male adults.

$$2. \quad \text{ball} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1. \text{spherical} \\ 2. \text{roundish body} \\ 3. \text{various size} \\ 4. \text{for a game} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{testicle}$$
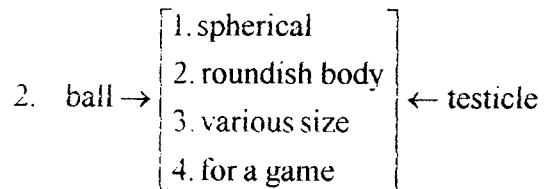

Ball and testicle have the same shape, spherical and roundish body. Both ball and testicle have various size, different man has different size of ball or testicle. Ball used for a game, and in sexual intercourse, testicle is often played too. So the term "ball" is used to mean "testicle"

Chat 4: "ur ball, how big?"

Chat 8: "well let me start to touch ur big ball"

The two chats above shows that man's ball size is an interesting thing to be showed and seen by women.

$$3. \quad \text{blow job} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1. \text{activities} \\ 2. \text{fellatio} \\ 3. \text{oral} \\ 4. \text{intercourse} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{oral sex}$$
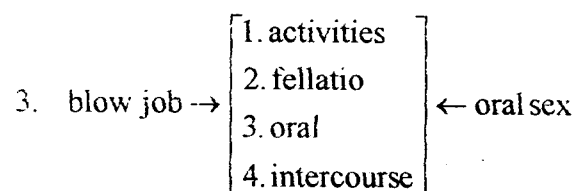

Blowjob is an activity of fellatio (stimulating the penis by sucking or licking) or oral intercourse (using mouth to stimulate part of body).

Chat 3: "can u bj?"

Blowjob is often expressed in abbreviation bj. Bj (abbreviation) is familiar used as slang term in 'cybersex' in order to make easier for 'cybersex' chatter.

$$4. \quad \text{boobs} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1.\,\text{beebs} \\ 2.\,\text{sound} \\ 3.\,\text{old car horn} \\ 4.\,\text{spherical surface} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{female breast}$$
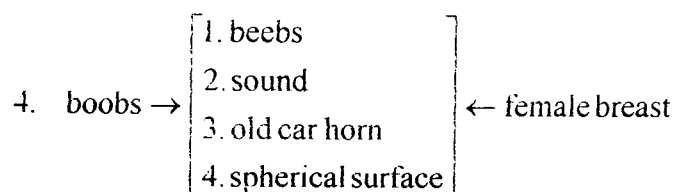

Boobs contain a phonic reference of "beeb" with vowel change from [i:] to [u:]. "Beeb" is the sound of the old car horn. The horn has the same shape with female breast. Touching or holding the old horn is similar to touching or holding female's breasts.

Chat 5: "hows ur boobs"?

Chat 7: "do u have big boobs"?

From the two chatters who say about boobs above, it seems that the measure or size of boobs (female breast) is important to be known. The bigger of the woman's boobs, the more interesting the man to her.

$$5. \quad \text{butt} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1.\,\text{part of body} \\ 2.\,\text{blunt} \\ 3.\,\text{two rounded} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{buttock}$$
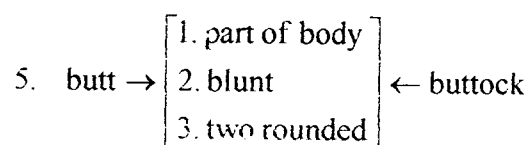

Butt is the word clipping of buttock. Butt is part of body, which is blunt and two rounded. Butt is similar with ass, like what has been explained above.

Chat 2: "my tongue is in ur butt..."

Man often lick and suck woman butt in sexual intercourse.

$$6. \quad \text{cock} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1.\,\text{strong} \\ 2.\,\text{long shaft} \\ 3.\,\text{conquer} \\ 4.\,\text{sexually} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{penis}$$
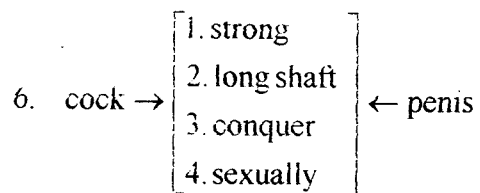

Cock in real meaning is a male bird, opposite to hen. Cock is strong, has a long shaft, and used to conquer female bird sexually, often in many times. Cock becomes the slang term of male penis, because of their similarity. For most men, his penis is strong and long, it is used to conquer women sexually. Moreover, in sexual intercourse, a penis can serve many times. In 'cybersex', cock is often used to show penis, instead of dick, lollipop, etc.

Chat 7: "please suck my cock"

In sexual intercourse, cock often be suck, instead of be inserted into vagina.

$$7. \quad \text{cum} \rightarrow \begin{bmatrix} 1.\,\text{come} \\ 2.\,\text{fluid} \\ 3.\,\text{is secreted} \\ 4.\,\text{orgasm} \end{bmatrix} \leftarrow \text{semen}$$
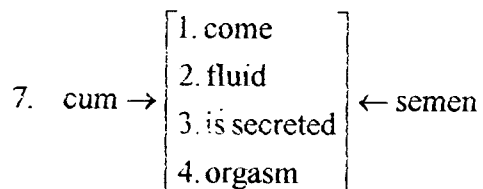

Cum is phonic reference of "come", the term used when male or female reach their ultimate pleasure in the intercourse. It is fluid secreted at orgasm. Coming is a word used when a man is getting orgasm, and cum will be released if men had orgasm.

Chat 11: "... make my cum out"

One function of doing 'cybersex' chat is making a man (chatter) to release his cum when he is getting orgasm.

8. dick → $\begin{bmatrix} 1.\ \text{activity} \\ 2.\ \text{dig} \\ 3.\ \text{hole} \\ 4.\ \text{male} \end{bmatrix}$ ← penis
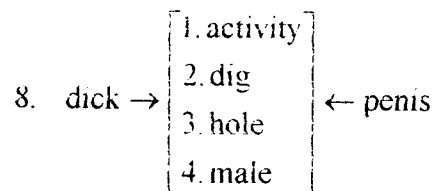

'Dick' is phonic reference of 'dig'. 'Dig' is an activity to make a hole. In sexual intercourse, 'dig' means enter or insert to a woman's 'hole'. Actually 'dick' is a male's name. Only males have 'dick', females do not have.

Chat 2: "can u feel the head of my dick"?

Being compared to a male, 'dick' has the similarity with male. Both 'dick' and male have a head.

9. doggie style → $\begin{bmatrix} 1.\ \text{back sided} \\ 2.\ \text{rear - entry} \\ 3.\ \text{anal sexual} \\ 4.\ \text{position} \end{bmatrix}$ ← anal intercourse
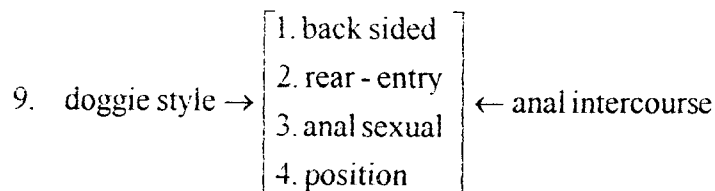

Doggie style used in sexual intercourse, where the man enters the woman's vagina from her back side; also called rear entry. This style of doing anal intercourse is like dogs when making in love.

Chat 8: "doggie style, interested baby"?

Doggie style is one of the styles, which is often used in sexual intercourse, instead of sixty- nine.

10. erection → $\begin{bmatrix} 1.\ \text{physical stimulation} \\ 2.\ \text{exitement} \\ 3.\ \text{sexually erect} \end{bmatrix}$ ← erect of sexual organ
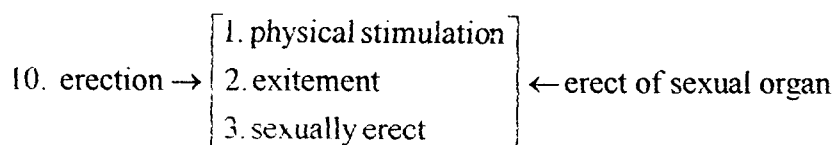

It is a condition in which a man get physical stimulation or excitement inspires erotic thought that makes his sexual organ erect. It happens when the penis becomes engorged with blood and rigid due to the sexual stimulation.

Wet only happened to women. It is a condition of vagina, which is moist and covered with water liquid. A woman says wet if she is sexually aroused and producing vaginal lubrication.

Chat 5: "is your pussy wet"?

Woman in wet condition shows that she is getting orgasm.

4.2. Findings

The writer finds that there are some slang words used very often in chats. The word 'pussy' is used eight times in total twelve chats. It means that the word 'pussy' is a common word to express vagina. The writer did not find any other word in twelve chats that refer to vagina, except 'pussy', contrast with the fact that there are many slang terms to express 'penis', such as: 'cock', 'dick', 'hotdog', 'lollipop', and 'pistol'. The second word, which is mostly used, is 'boobs', means 'female breasts'. More chatter used 'boobs' (8 chatters) than 'melon' (1 chatter only). The second most common words are suck and hard, each of them used by six netters.

The writer finds that different 'cybersex' chatters used different slang terms to express the same thing such as 'penis' and 'semen'. Most chatters (5 person) used 'dick' to refer to 'penis', the other used 'cock' (3 chatters), 'hotdog' (1 chatter), 'lollipop' (1 chatter), and 'pistol' (1 chatter). People used slang words for penis from the real things in their surrounding. Because 'hotdog', 'lollipop', and 'pistol' have the similarities in their shape with 'penis', so people use those words to make easier to mean 'penis'. The writer finds that the terms used to express 'semen' also various. Six chatters use jelly to refer to 'semen', because 'jelly' has similarities in features with 'semen' in its condition. The other netters prefer to use 'cum' (3 person), 'juice' (3 person), and 'wad' (1 person) instead of 'jelly', to mean 'semen'.

The writer finds that the categorisation of 'cybersex' slang terms into their parts of speech shows that the biggest amount of those terms (24) belong to the N (Noun). The second biggest amount of 'cybersex' slang terms belongs to Verb (9), and the rest belong to the Adjective (8). The writer finds no terms belong to the Adverb. The finding of part of speech seems to justify the word classification or categories by structuralist, who divided words into content and function, in the term of occurrences and quantity. Structuralist divided content into Noun (as class 1), Verb (class 2), Adjective (class 3), and Adverb (class 4). This phenomenon also happens to the writer's findings.

The writer finds that slang formations based on the book Colloquium by Hensaw and Montague is not complete enough to be used in analysing 'cybersex' slang terms. Only in a small number of words (6 terms) can be categorized as 'compounding', 1 term belongs to 'word clipping', 1 term comes from 'generalisation of proper names', and the rest (33 terms) belong to the 'other'. The biggest amount of the terms does not belong to the five categorization of slang terms based on the book colloquium. She finds that there are some words are 'functional shift', like the words taste and fuck. The word 'taste' can be verb and noun. In chat 3 "wanna taste me?", 'taste' serve as verb, but in chat 1 "...sweet in taste", 'taste serve as noun. The word 'fuck' in chat 3 "it is my first fucking", serve as noun, but in chat 2 "I wanna fuck u baby", 'fuck' belongs to verb.

In the analysis of 'cybersex' slang terms into their components, the writer uses own interpretation according to the similarities in feature, share predication, analogy, and prior knowledge. Instead of that, the writer finds that sense relation of lexemes can also be traced into our association and its function, reference, and historical background. Analysis into component for some 'cybersex' slang terms through people's association can be based on the function, form, shape, sounds, and also five senses (hear, sight, smell, taste, and touch). For example: 'ball', 'hotdog', 'jelly', 'juice', 'lollipop', and 'pistol'. The slang terms have the same shape with male's testicle, penis and semen. Relates to people's five major senses, those slang terms also have the similarity with the real things if people touch, see, or even taste them.

Some 'cybersex' slang terms have the same function with the real objects in which they refer to. For example: 'cock' and 'pistol'. The two slang terms refer to male's penis in reality. Both Cock and pistol have function to conquer their enemy, and in 'cybersex' the enemy is woman.

In term of their reference, some 'cybersex' slang terms can be analysed based on to what they refer to. For example: 'ball', 'hotdog', 'lollipop', 'melon',

'moon', 'pistol', and 'doggie style'. Talking about several terms above, the writer can draw things to which they refer. She has explained the reference of those 'cybersex' slang terms in her analysis.

The writer finds that there is 'cybersex' slang term can be analysed through their component relates to their historical background. The term 'boobs' is phonic reference from 'beebs'. 'Beebs' is the sound of old car horn. Historically, if being touch, old car horn has the same shape with female breast, soft and spherical.
